Jedediah & Martha Ellis died of TB about a month before leaving, during which 3 little daughters - Ted, of them, Dorothy & Oliver, then went to New Hampshire to live with the Duncans.

The death date of Capt Samuel Ellis' widow has not been found yet. She & her son Jedediah's wife Martha joined a new church congregation in 1801.
I think she went elsewhere to stay with relatives.

This is in the part of the county which later became Sullivan County. (The town is now called "Grantham," during the "New" appellation. It bordered on Croydon, where Levi located his home. In 1800 Levi and Keziah (Ellis) Dodge had four sons & 2 sons David age 2 and baby Vededick--named for Keziah's father Vededick Ellis, son of Revolutionary ancestor (Epiphany Journal Ellis)

From film #0015374, copied October 1999 at Family History Library, Salt Lake City.
 Town Records of Croyden NH - 1819 Tax List shows Dwight Dodge, then aged 21, next to his father Levi. (this is in agreement with the Dodge Bible, which states that he and Susanna were back in New Hampshire for the birth of their second child, Lucy, in March 1820, but back in Sempronius in August 1821 when their third child, Levi--named for his grandfather--was born.) The Bible also reveals that little Levi died age 1, and that after his second marriage to Lydia Pearce they had little Levi James, named for his two grandfathers Levi Dodge, and James Pearce. Dwight & Lydia's first child was Phebe Keziah Dodge, named for grandmothers, Phebe (Wood) Pearce and Keziah (Ellis) Dodge --Dwight's MOTHER.

This is a little hard to read. It says, "The Intention of Marriage between Dwight Dodge of This Town & Susanna Monroe of Sempronius, S NY has been published in this Town as the Law requires. Decr 1st 1817. Attest Jacob Haven, Town Clerk."

This was 19-year-old Dwight Dodge's first marriage. Pages from his family Bible reveal that they were married in Sempronius on 21 Dec 1817, and that Susanna was born 10 Aug 1799 in Croyden (then Cheshire Co NH) and died 5 Aug 1830 in New York, in the 31st year of her life.

B. National Historic Sites in Non-Federal Ownership

Scattered throughout the United States are a number of National Historic Sites in non-Federal ownership. These are not units of the National Park System but, as authorized by the Historic Sites Act of 1935, are administered under the provisions of cooperative agreements to which the Secretary of the Interior is a party. In order to retain the designation of National Historic Site, the other parties to the agreement must maintain the property in a manner consistent with good preservation practices, and for this purpose they may receive technical assistance from the National Park Service. The Federal Government also normally provides a bronze plaque for mounting at the site. All sites so designated have been approved by the Advisory Board as meeting the criteria of exceptional historical value.

1. Dorchester Heights National Historic Site, Massachusetts

Location: Thomas Park, South Boston.

The seizure and fortification of Dorchester Heights in March 1776 was the first real stroke of military success enjoyed by the Continental Army in the War for Independence. Not only were the British forced to evacuate Boston by Gen. George Washington's unexpected move, but this success served also to inspire hope and confidence in the leadership and capabilities of the Continental Army.

This masterful operation was launched from Dorchester and Roxbury, and was very carefully planned, utilizing about 2,400 troops and militia with a continual procession of carts and wagons, screened partially by bales of hay, carrying long bundles of birch saplings (intended for fascines for building up breastworks on exposed ledges and on frozen ground) and other materials. The labor began on the night of March 4, under a bright moon. It proceeded so rapidly that by daylight the forts on the two highest hilltops of what is properly Dorchester Heights were well enough advanced to offer some defense against assault. When Gen. William Howe looked on the redoubts from his bedchamber that morning, he is said to have remarked, "The rebels have done more in one night than my whole army would have done in a month."

Colonel Henry Knox had brought overland from Fort Ticonderoga 70 artillery pieces which, promptly placed on Dorchester Heights, rendered the city untenable by the British and threatened also the vessels in the harbor. Howe determined to attack immediately, and the Americans waited resolutely "in a position twice as strong as Bunker Hill, with a force more than twice as large, and under the immediate eye of the General-in-Chief." They were snug in their works, with rows of stone- and sand-filled barrels ready to roll down upon any attacking force. The intended attack never came. The British artillerists found that they could not elevate their guns sufficiently to reach the American parapets, and a boisterous storm prevented the movement of troops needed for a planned night attack. Washington worked all the while to perfect the fortifications, and soon made them, as far as Howe's army was concerned, impregnable. The British evacuated on March 17—an army of 11,000 men, with 1,100 loyalist refugees, in their transports.

Every side of the heights is now built up, but the white marble monument at the summit looks sufficiently high even today to reveal a position that was naturally strategic and, with fortifications, very formidable. The monument is 115 feet high, consisting of a tower and steeple reminiscent of a New England meeting house of 200 years ago. It was dedicated on March 17, 1902, the 126th anniversary of the British evacuation of Boston.

Under the terms of a cooperative agreement signed by the Secretary of the Interior and the Mayor of Boston on March 17, 1951, Dorchester Heights was designated a National Historic Site. The monument and Thomas Park, named for Gen. John Thomas who commanded the troops on Dorchester Heights, are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Parks, City of Boston.

 Town Records of Croyden NH - 1819 Tax List shows Dwight Dodge, then aged 21, next to his father Levi. (This is in agreement with the Dodge Bible, which states that he and Susanna were back in New Hampshire for the birth of their second child, Lucy, in March 1820, but back in Sempronius in August 1821 when their third child, Levi--named for his grandfather--was born.) The Bible also reveals that little Levi died age 1, and that after his second marriage to Lydia Pearce they had little Levi James, named for his two grandfathers Levi Dodge, and James Pearce. Dwight & Lydia's first child was Phebe Keziah Dodge, named for grandmothers Phebe (Wood) Pearce and Keziah (Ellis) Dodge --Dwight's MOTHER.

This is a little hard to read. It says, "The Intention of Marriage between Dwight Dodge of This Town & Susanna Monroe of Sempronius, NY has been published in this Town as the Law requires. Decr 1st 1817. Attest Jacob Haven, Town Clerk."

This was 19-year-old Dwight Dodge's first marriage. Pages from his family Bible reveal that they were married in Sempronius on 21 Dec 1817, and that Susanna was born 10 Aug 1799 in Croyden (then Cheshire Co NH) and died 5 Aug 1830 in New York, in the 31st year of her life.

first school house was built by the township of Blythe in 1846. It was a brick and stood south of the public square.

Massingale & Wilhoit's mill, on Shoal creek, a few hundred yards up the stream from the bridge, on the Hamilton road, was the first mill in the neighborhood of Kingston. It is fully mentioned elsewhere.

INCORPORATION.

Kingston was incorporated by act of the Legislature, November 21, 1857, as a town. The following is an extract from section 1 of the act of incorporation:—

The inhabitants of the tract or district of country known by the name of Kingston, in the county of Caldwell, situate and lying in the following boundary, to wit: The east half of the southwest quarter of section 22, in township 56, of range 28, shall be, and they are hereby created a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the "Town of Kingston," etc.

In April, 1872, the foregoing section was amended and the boundary extended by the Legislature, so that the limits of the town should comprise "the east half of the southeast quarter of section 21, and the west half of the southwest quarter, and also a strip 59 rods wide off of the south side of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 22; also, that part of the west half of the northwest quarter of section 27 which lies north of Log creek, all in township 56, range 28.

The present population of Kingston is about 600, although 750 is claimed. It has three general stores, one exclusive grocery and provision store, one hardware store, three drug stores, two livery stables, one furniture store, two hotels, two newspapers—the Caldwell County Sentinel and Kingston Times; one banking house, the Caldwell County Bank, capital $50,000, John D. Cox, proprietor; two or three millinery establishments, mechanics' shops, a steam flour and grist mill, ten or a dozen attorneys, half a dozen physicians, etc. There is a fine two-story brick public school building, and a comfortable frame school-house for the colored children of the district. There are three church buildings—Christian, Presbyterian, and Congregationalist. The town is connected with Hamilton by telephone.

Free from the bustle and busy turmoil of large railroad towns, Kingston is without many of their advantages; but it is also without many of their disadvantages, without their vices and their crimes, their corruption and prevailing sentiment of distrust and thought of evil. The people of Kingston are generous, hospitable, able, socially disposed, and confiding. The stranger, if his walk is at all circumspect, is not looked upon with suspicion, but is trusted and made welcome. The true nobility and gentility of character of the men and women of this town can not be too highly commented upon. The slanderer and the backbiter do not ply their calling here. People choose to hear and to talk of the good traits of their neighbors rather than of their weaknesses.

The young people are pure in character and correct in true deportment, but withal are full of merriment and jollity, fond of each other's society and of harmless recreation and amusement. The young ladies are alike well qualified to serve in the kitchen, to grace the parlor, and to shine in the ball room and at the reception, and their many charms of person and manner attract to them hosts of admirers.

God bless and prosper the people of Kingston!

ANCESTOR'S SERVICES

The said Captain Samuel Ellis who resided during the American Revolution at Starbridge Massachusetts assisted in establishing American Independence, while acting in the capacity of captain of 67 troopers raised in Starbridge, Dudley, Charlton and Oxford MA

My ancestor's services during the Revolutionary War were as follows:

*He and his company engaged in Continental Service 06 Dec 1775, marched to Roxbury where they joined Col. Ebenezer Learned's regt.
and continued in service until 01 Feb 1776.*

*Source: Commonwealth of MA official publication, Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War, page 315, copy enclosed. (Also for DAR records see that very incomplete) records from the National Archives confirming this and intimating that he was present at Fish Kill for a nine-month stint including June 1778. Two of his men's arrival shown.) Historians detailing events of the famous Battle of Saratoga New York state that by then General Ebenezer Learned had a station at the mouth of Fish Kill River.
However, there was another Fish Kill in Dutchess Co NY. Because that part of his service is so poorly documented, I am claiming only for Captain Ellis's services while encamped at Roxbury MA.)*

Give references by volume and page to the documentary or other authorities for MILITARY RECORD: Where reference is made to unpublished or inaccessible records of service, the applicant must file the official copy.
